

Feedback from Notre Dame Senior Girls High School, Sunyani, Ghana.

1. Aims of being involved in the project

Our aims of being involved in the project are;

- i. To help broaden the scope of knowledge of our girls about the outside world.
- ii. To make our students appreciate other cultures apart from theirs, which we hope shall give them an advantage over their counterparts in other schools as far as the global village concept is concerned.
- iii. To enable our students share their aspirations with young people of their age from other parts of the world.

2. The results we see of being involved in the project.

In this short time of being involved with the project, we have observed the following:

- i. Students who are part of the project have had their communication skills improved and we hope it shall get even better with time.
- ii. From our interaction with the students involved, we have also observed that the project has made them develop a sense of appreciation for other cultures.
- iii. It has helped boost their self-confidence and also the sense of worth in their school.
- iv. They have become curious to know more about other countries other than Ireland.

3. Impact of the Project in our School

It is the pride of all students that their small Notre Dame Senior High School is known beyond Ghana. This has boosted the confidence of our girls and we would not be surprised at all if more girls currently in the Junior High School would have Notre Dame as their first choice just because of this.

4. Is the whole school or parents aware of the project?

Yes, the whole school is very much aware of the project. In the first place, the entire student body at a gathering was told about it and those who had interest expressed it to be part. Also, at a Parent Teacher Association meeting, parents were told about it and they showed a great deal of interest.

Augustine Akwowuki
Project Co-ordinator
Notre Dame.